Win with Civility - Overcoming Communication Obstacles

Here are some common communication barriers and ways to overcome them.

Conflicting Versions
Conflicting interpretations of the same event can lead to a communication breakdown.

- If you're in doubt about what someone tells you, get more information from other sources before taking action.

Poor Listening
Poor listening can sabotage any attempt at communication. We all do it: We hear a little and then "fill in" what we think the rest will be, without really listening to what's actually being said.

- Devote your full attention to the message.
- Look for a new slant on what the other person is saying.
- When dealing with poor listeners, explain that you need help in making sure you communicated clearly.
- Test the listener's understanding of what you said: Ask questions or get listeners to repeat the message back to you in their own words.

Poor Timing
Timing is everything in successful communication.

- Wait until you've gathered and organized all the information you need to get your point across.
- Choose a time when both you and the other person or group are open, receptive and ready to communicate.
- Avoid times when anyone involved is under pressure or having a bad day for reasons unrelated to what you need to talk about.

Conflicting Expectations
When everyone shows up with a different idea of what the Home Safety Tips for National Be Safe at Home Week - August 23 - 27

Living safely on your own is a key source of independence, but it’s not easy.

Basically, all the home safety advice given to couples and families applies to the homes of single people, as well.

In addition to cooking safely, being sure the smoke alarm works, and having non-slip rugs and bath mats, here are some other words of advice.

• Create a detailed action plan in case of an emergency. Who will you call, a neighbor, 911, family or a friend?
• Put the telephone in a convenient spot. If you use a cellphone, be conscious of where you leave it, so it can be found quickly.
• Be sure doors have deadbolt locks.
• When visitors knock, have them identify themselves. Use a door chain. Never open the door for an unidentified stranger.

• Have daily communications with family or friends. Remain socially engaged.
• Keep track of doctor’s appointments and times to take any medications.
• Have adequate lighting at the front door or hallway and on steps. If you live in an apartment building, report any lights that are burned out.
• With Internet dating, never give your full name, address or phone number at the first meeting. Meet in a public place such as a coffee shop.

Our Commitment to Excellence

Cascade Centers offers you excellence with experience, unlimited accessibility, coordination with benefit plans, a variety of services, a professional caring staff, and more.

We build lasting relationships with the individuals and organizations we serve. These enduring partnerships are the foundation of our company.